

The Cleveland Museum of Art

November 24, 1992

contact: Greg Donley

CHANGES IN DECEMBER FILMS AT THE CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART

Due its sudden withdrawal from theatrical release, Johnny Guitar, the film originally scheduled to show at The Cleveland Museum of Art at 3:30 pm on Sunday, December 5, will not be available for screening here. The Museum is pleased to announce a showing of Howard Hawks' The Big Sky in place of the originally scheduled movie. This film concludes the series, Into the West.

Sun/Dec 5, 3:30 pm The Big Sky, 1952, b&w, 122 min. Directed by Howard Hawks, with Kirk Douglas, Dewey Martin, and Elizabeth Threatt. A trapper leads an expedition up the Missouri River in this rarely-shown adventure movie that French film critics once voted the third best American western ever made. Admission $4, $3 CMA members, $2 kids under 12.

Please also note that Woman in Love, the final film in the Classic Mexican Cinema series described on the accompanying press release, replaces We, the Poor, which was published as the December 22 film showing in the Museum's December News & Calendar and on some advance events schedules.

Thanks.

###